Dear F.A.P.S.

I just wanted to drop you good people a quick letter of support for the arduous task which has been laid at your feet. To find a group with enough courage to stand up against the government and it's supposed infinite wisdom while not unheard of is indeed rare. In this part of this great land it has been done before and we must continue the fight to preserve the past.

I myself was born and raised in the north. This being said I must confess that my heart has always been in Dixie. Fact is the south has moved further north than most people would think. The part of Ohio where I come from would have to be described as being "just a lot of good ol' country folks." The transition from living there to living in the glorious lands of the South was easy. This being due to the incredible similarity in ways of life, culture, food, religion, etc, etc.

There should be no boundary line when it comes to issues like preserving our historical sites and battlegrounds. The blood shed at these places was neither blue nor gray. The fallen heroes of these times bled the same color. We must now stand united in this cause to save this and all historical sites from those whose hearts are full of greed and politicians whose pockets are lined with corporate dollars.

At this time I cannot afford to send a monetary donation, however I do send my support for the "Just Cause" and prayers for success.
